RE-CONSTRUCTED COURT HOUSE IS RE-DEDICATED

TALK GIVEN BY CHIEF JUSTICE

Commissioner John Kerr
Delivers Dedication
Address

LISBON, Jan. 2.—Approximately 31 years after a common pleas court was established in this country, and the holding of the first court session in a barn on the Mathias Lower place, Fairfield township, a remodeled stone court house was re-dedicated here Monday.

From early Monday morning until late in the evening, men, women and children from this and adjoining counties milled through the completed part of the structure.

Plans "Grand Opening"

When the entire structure is completed, and this will depend entirely upon FEPA grants, the Lisbon Chamber of Commerce, according to present plans, will have a "grand opening."

Program of the re-dedication of the reconstructed building was followed in minute detail throughout the day.

Palms and ferns had been placed in the main lobby of the main floor, while large baskets of flowers were placed in all offices now occupied. In No. 1 court room, there was a large array of cut flowers and potted plants, with a large American flag displayed near the judicial bench.

Before the noon hour, a 30-piece band from the Fairmount Children's home gave a concert in the main room that is to be occupied by the clerk of courts, the group being under the leadership of S. G. Gilbert.

Over 350 guests attended the noon luncheon at the Presbyterian church, which was immediately followed by an organ concert by Homer Taylor, Salem, in the church auditorium.

Because of the illness of Common Pleas Judge W. Frank Jones, the chairmanship of the day fell to the lot of Probate Judge Homer W. Hammond.

Justice Weygant speaks in addressing a crowded church auditorium, said: "These are interesting times in which we are living, and it would be a mistake not to call attention to the important work that you here in Columbiana county have been doing, and which is now nearing completion. It shows there abides in this community a robust composure of the things that are needed."

"This county of Columbiana has a foundation of which you may well feel proud. I hope the time will never come in this county, in this state, in this nation, when we shall have lost confidence in the orderly administration of justice."

The chief justice interspersed his address with much historical data which he read from the bound volume, referring to the "court in the barn" in Fairfield township, and climbing upward in the history of the county courts until the present day.

Att'y John A. Elden Dies In Auto Mishap

Cleveland Lawyer, Native of East Liverpool,
Succumbs of Fractured Skull

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—In Cuyahoga county, Legionnaires have been asked to turn out en masse for the funeral of Att'y John A. Elden, former gubernatorial candidate, and former commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion, who was killed yesterday in the city's first traffic fatality.

The services will be conducted Friday by members of Holyrood Commandery, Knights Templar.

Returning From Party

Mr. and Mrs. Elden were returning to their home at 22099 McCauley rd., Shaker Heights, at 3 yesterday morning from an Al Koran Shrine New Year's eve party at Hotel Hollenden when their automobile and another collided at E. 36th and Prospect ave. S. E.

Occupants of the other car were Ernest F. Lindenmayer, 23, of 2561 E. 86th st., second-year student in the medical school of Western Reserve university; his brother, Alfred, 22, a pre-medical student at Adelbert college; his sister, Johanna, 22, Miss Ella Rice, 21, of 12606 Griffing ave. S. E., and Harry Cordisero, 21, who gave his address as the Phi Chi fraternity house. They told police they had been to a New Year's eve fraternity dance.

Mrs. Elden was treated at Charity hospital for shock. Miss Rice received first aid for cuts and bruises at Polyclinic hospital. The others were not hurt.

Police Sgt. John Kress said the Elden car was traveling south on E. 36th st. and Lindenmayer's automobile was going east on Prospect ave.

Sweres Sharply
Lindenmayer said he swerved sharply in an attempt to avoid hitting the Elden car, but struck the right rear fender, overturning his own car and knocking the other automobile against a telephone pole on the southeast corner of the intersection.

There were no disinterested witnesses to the crash, police said, and Elden was in such a nervous condition that police did not attempt to question her. Police said occupants of the Lindenmayer car asserted the Elden automobile failed to observe the boulevard stop on E. 36th st.

Mr. Elden died of a skull fracture, Coroner A. J. Pearce said. Police said they would continue their investigation today.

Mr. Elden was born in East Liverpool, Ohio, April 3, 1891. He attended the East Liverpool schools and Virginia Military Institute and in 1912 was graduated from Adelbert college of Western Reserve University. Two years later he obtained his law degree from Western Reserve Law School and was admitted to the Ohio bar. He then took post-graduate work at Columbia University, George Washington University and the Cleveland School of Law.

When the United States entered the World War Mr. Elden joined the chemical warfare service and served overseas, rising to the rank of captain, a rank he still held in the reserve corps.

Prominent in Legion
After the war Mr. Elden began the general practice of law, heading his own firm. At the time of his death, he was associated with Melvin E. Mohr with offices in the Hippodrome Building.

Had he lived until Jan. 14 Mr. Elden would have become potentate of Al Koran Shrine. He had been Decided Increase Is Seen in Total for Year

(By Associated Press)

The "happy new year" brought death to seven persons in Ohio as a result of traffic accidents. Three persons were killed in Cleveland, one each in Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton and Akron, over the holiday.

John A. Elden, 43, attorney, former Ohio commander of the American Legion post, president of the Ohio Bar association and a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor at the last primary, was the first traffic fatality of 1935 in Cleveland. He received fatal injuries while driving home from a celebration with Mrs. Elden. Mrs. Elden received only minor injuries.

Struck By Auto
Mrs. Anna Lashua, 46, died New Year's day from injuries received Monday when she was struck by an automobile in Cleveland. The third Cleveland victim of holiday traffic was an unidentified man who died yesterday and is still unidentified.

At Dayton, Fred Crackett, 50, died shortly before the whistles heralded the new year after being struck by an automobile.

John Basch, 75, of Mt. Carmel, O., was Cincinnati's first traffic victim in 1935. He was struck by a hit-skip driver and left unconscious in the road. He died after being taken to a hospital.

William Hunter, Jr., 37, of Columbus, was fatally injured when a hit-skip motorist drove into a group of four New Year celebrators on a downtown Columbus street. His wife was seriously injured.

Archie Harmon, 35, was fatally injured in an accident at Akron. Ohio in 1934 was stricken as sorely by the death scourge of automobile accidents as ever before, if a new peak was not reached.

STRATEGY MEET CALLED FRIDAY BY ROOSEVELT

President Is Silent on His Plans as Congress
Gathers

LEADERS TO MEET AT WHITE HOUSE

Scope of 1935 New Deal
Policy to Be Outlined in Detail

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Amid silence deeper than any in recent years, the Democratic high command worked today on new deal strategy for the momentous 74th congress opening tomorrow.

As President Roosevelt labored on his plans, no word went out about details of his recommendations for relief, public works, social security, the budget or any of the other major issues with which the congress will wrestle.

Leaders to Be Called

After two working days in which congress will go through the opening formalities and hear the President deliver his message on the state of the nation—expected to be general rather than detailed—legislative leaders are expected to be called to the White House Friday night. There, it is believed, the scope of the 1935 new deal plans will be discussed in detail.

Next week the congress will go to work, with two old-time trouble-makers, the bonus and the world court, awaiting it right at the start.

On Capitol Hill today, there was no legislator who professed concrete knowledge of the President's plans. Awaiting his opening message, set for Friday, and the budget message on Monday, each party called organization meetings for today.

The work of organizing was not without its potential fireworks. The 322 house Democrats had to choose a floor leader from among eight candidates all promising to stay in the fight till the end. The speakership, however, was a foregone conclusion, with Rep. Joseph W. Burns, of Tennessee slated to be nominated today and elected tomorrow.

Formal Meetings

Other meetings today were mostly formalities. Senate Democrats agreed to re-name Senator Robinson of Arkansas as their leader; senate Republicans were behind Senator McNary of Oregon for that job in their party. The 192 house Republicans were expected to re-nominate Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York as their floor leader.

After house Democrats chose their leader, another contested issue was in store. Democratic leaders, seeking to protect the administration program from any revolt, put on a broad campaign for a change in rules so that 218 members instead of 145 would have to sign a petition to force a vote on a bill which lacked administration approval.

There was operation, especially

SITS FEW FEET FROM LINDBERGH AS TRIAL OPENS

22 Veniremen Questioned,
Four Accepted, Sworn
In at Noon

MACHINIST WILL BE JURY FOREMAN

Case Brings "Boom-Time"
Appearance to New Jersey Village

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyrighted, 1935, By The Associated Press)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2. Sitting a few feet from the father of the baby he is accused of murdering, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, stolid, morose carpenter, began the ordeal of trial for his life today, and heard accepted jurors say they had no prejudices against capital punishment.

He stared straight ahead through the questioning of veniremen, paying little heed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh seated nearby at the prosecution table. Mrs. Lindbergh, the bereaved mother, was not present.

Wife Listens
Another woman, almost lost in the back of the room among a jamming crowd, listened with intense interest. She was Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the Bronx carpenter and mother of his own infant son, Mannfred.

At the noon recess 22 veniremen had been questioned, four accepted and sworn.

The questioning and selecting went forward with unexpected speed. It began almost immediately after Justice Thomas W. Trenchard opened his court in the most important and dramatic trial of recent years.

A machinist will be foreman of the jury. He is Charles Walton, Sr. The others accepted, sworn and pledged immediately under guard were: Mrs. Rosie Phil, 38-year-old widow and mother of two grown sons, Mrs. Verna Snyder, a housewife, and Charles F. Snyder, a farmer of the Sourland country.

Pamphlet Considered
"Criminal file No. 2310," was a moot point in the questioning of the prospective jurors. This pamphlet, satirizing the Lindbergh case and thinly veiling the names and circumstances, was widely distributed in Hunterdon county. Most of the veniremen acknowledged they had read the piece, but none would say that it had anything to do with the forming of an opinion, if he had formed one.

The selected jurors were forbidden to talk to anyone. To their guards Justice Trenchard said: "See that they read nothing of the case and hear no radio broadcasts."

The opening of the far-noted trial today presented boom-town scenes as 700 reporters, wire men and others descended upon the busily-engaged, but calm 2,700 inhabitants of the village.

Seventy of the townfolk were in a line whose head pressed against the court door before the opening. Many of them were disappointed, for they could not be admitted into the tiny space allotted for the trial. Some said "we won't pay our taxes."

Wanted To Pay Way In
At least one girl offered to pay the sheriff money for standing room. An aged man, though he waited in line, refused to admit any interest in the trial.

"It makes me no money," he averred. Another said he only came (from 40 miles away) to "look at the public."

Colonel Lindbergh watched the prospective jurors with deep interest, noted each of them as they reacted to state or defense questions. At all times his features were calm. Now and again he cupped his chin in his hands. He was not observed in any studied glance toward Hauptmann whose chair was

Will At Game

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 2.—Well, it looks like none of the schemes worked and we are going right on ahead just letting the new year come.

I am on my way out to the football game. I imagine it will be in the papers anyhow about who won. I will be too busy blathering at the game to do much reporting.

It was real Chamber of Commerce weather and I looked for those old Arkansas boys (that played under the name of Alabama) and those Pennsylvania ones who played under the non de plume of Stanford. They put up a great game.

Anxious to hear about the team that Huey Long imported to beat Tulane.

CHUG!

By this time probably three out of every five persons interested in automobiles (and who isn't?) has seen at least one of the 1935 models. In some cases deliveries of new models have been made to purchasers. Other years, deliveries were not made till after the New York automobile show, which was held in January. This year the automobile industry is getting off to a flying start.

Hopes are high. There are hundreds of thousands of automobile drivers and riders in the United States who still think "Chug!" is the sound an automobile engine makes. There are some Americans still riding over gasoline tanks built under the front seat. There are people who never dreamed a car could run without making a noise louder than a large cat purr and who think 70 miles an hour can't be made off the Indianapolis speedway.

These people, as an automobile salesman would say, need new cars. Their old ones were mighty good products, but even if they run they are worn out. Compared with what is available now, they are little more than relics of a day when less than four punctures in 40 miles guaranteed a successful trip.

The average farm automobile, one statistician asserts, is 6.7 years old. It was bought back in the days when Calvin Coolidge was deciding not to run for another term, when Herbert Hoover was promising two cars in every garage and Samuel Insull was the greatest man in Chicago. It has been a good investment, as such things go, and now it is time to renew it.

Maybe it's silly to think Americans, including thousands of farmers, are going to buy great numbers of new automobiles in 1935. Some people thought it was silly to be optimistic this time last year, but in the first 11 months of 1934 automobile production was 40 percent higher than in the first 11 months of 1933 and 5 percent higher than for all of 1931. The fact is, automobile manufacturers can't afford to be silly needlessly. They are taking a chance, but it's not a long one—not as they look at it.

STRONG MEN AT EXERCISE

Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Navy, has announced plans for fleet maneuvers next summer.

A vast armada, largest ever assembled under single command, will go through intricate exercises in a 5,000,000 square mile triangle formed by lines drawn from San Pedro, Cal., to Puget Sound, to the Hawaiian Islands and back to the mainland.

There will be 177 surface ships in the armada, 477 airplanes and the dirigible, Macon. Approximately 55,000 officers and men will take part in the exercises. Millions of dollars will be spent outright, besides widespread depreciation costs as the navy's war machinery is moved about in the Pacific ocean.

An interesting detail of the plans is establishment of an advance base on Midway island, 1,600 miles west of Honolulu. Japan, no doubt, will note this gesture carefully. The United States plans to come closer to Asia in this year's war games than it ever has come before.

It is not surprising to hear, incidentally, that Japan is going to come closer to North America in its own war exercises than it ever has before. Reassurance is provided by an explanation that plans have been drawn so carefully there could not possibly be any conflict. Japan, by the way, will need approximately $1,750,000 to conduct its war games this year.

Obviously, a nation's defense isn't any good unless it can be used. Ships, submarines, airplanes, dirigibles, airplane carriers and all the rest entail endless practice to give men proficiency in their use. A certain amount of muscle-flexing is, therefore, unavoidable.

When muscle-flexers start shouldering each other, however, fist-shaking is likely to be the next development. The United States and Japan, each one interested acutely in defense, some almost anxious sometimes to show what good defenders they could be in case of war. They are going to have security if they have to pick a fight to get it.

THE STARS SAY
For Thursday, January 3

A day of great liveliness and commotion is fore-shown by the places of the important planets. In all lines there will be found a high state of interest and progress, with a generally accelerated condition noted. It is a fine time for securing the assistance and friendly recognition of those in important business operations, with new contracts likely with mergers, rings or secret bodies. But be cautious in reading and signing such agreements. Sudden change or travel may attend.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively year with much opportunity for advancing in the security of important projects with the support of powerful persons, mergers, or secret societies, or by quiet understandings. New contracts are in order, but sign all with discretion. These new activities may involve change or journey and not so pleasant. Private affiliations also prove gratifying and lively. A child born on this day should be versatile, gifted in many unusual ways and should succeed through its ambitions either in private business or employment.

O. O. McINTYRE
NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—The tug of continuous burlesque fills more than a dozen theatres in greater New York from 10 a. m. until midnight. Some of their electric signs on 42d Street are gaudier than the pretentious movie houses. Many old vaudeville regulars are now burly fans.

The favorite coryphees of burlesque have more definite followings than the average stage star. Indeed, a number have brought back the stage door John in the makeup of a visiting hind from Hickory Corners. The boys from small towns go for burlesque queens.

Such fascinating sirens as Gypsy Lee Rose, Evelyn Myers and Maxine DeShon are reputed to receive more mash notes than any chorus girl on Broadway. While most of the epistles are from hinterland hot-spots of the "I'll be wearing a carnation and carry a newspaper type," they are torrid.

The piece de resistance of burlesque rowdy-dowdy is, of course, the strip dancer. While a few are ex-hooh twisters of the carnival shows, the depression has given the fleshy pyrotechnics many comely and statuesque girls who might otherwise be in high priced revues.

The ghost of D'Artagnan haunts New York again. Such a prominent maître d'armes as Bela deTuscan has declared more sword duels are being fought at sun-up these days than in several decades. There are a half dozen fencing schools in mid-town and students have found the sword an excellent tool for repairing social and business disputes. The duello is easily kept secret and rarely fatal. Two clashes this winter failed to reach the press.

The Metropolitan opera, scrubbed clean of its whorls of grime, is now a neat ten and for the first time in years presents a shining facade. The new splendor has attracted many street hawkers to the curb, some old timers but a few who seem abashed at making a living in a way for which they appear so wholly unsuited. Depression misfits!

Along the library wall of West 42d street among street salesmen is one faithful perchman, a Bainsfather's Ole Bill, who has been selling hook-on bottles of horrendous colors during my time in New York. He moves from lower Broadway to mid-town and the Bronx, a stained and seedy pilgrim who sits beside his display without soliciting. Yet he tells me that during the years he has been able to make a living without appeal to charity.

Roxy, transferring his showmanship to nearby Philadelphia, removes, it is hoped only temporarily, the most vivid theatrical personality of his period. With exception of the Paramount, he has shaped the destiny of every big movie house in Manhattan. He was the originator of the richly garnished type of stage spectacles that now prevail. Like most pioneers, he has suffered the scorn of the pathfinder. But has never given way to despair. After the usual type of jolts that the amusement world suffers, he dusts himself off and is back with a grin for the next encounter. Roxy won't stay down.

Someone tells me Ed Wynn's "So-o-o!" and the flutey uptake laugh are enormous exaggerations of his mother. Wynn used to mimic her when neighbors called not only to the delight of the good lady but her friends as well. So-o-o when he began searching for some new approach on the radio he recalled these characteristics and they clicked. Jack Pearl got much of his soda pop splutter from a cobbler whose shop was near his home on the East Side. W. C. Fields' "My pretty pigeon" and the like are a take-off on a throaty actor he used to know in his early repertoire days.

Of course, too, there is Chaplin's mignon walk that he picked up from a handy man around a London cab shelter. And Leon Errol's gutta percha leg was a mimicry of a run-soaked blighter in an Australian pub. Laurence D'Orsay got his monocular vacancy from a dour old clubman who used to call on his father every Sunday.

Persistent Cough In Children
Dangerous

PARENTS TOO often regard persistent cough in a child as something trivial and unimportant. This is the wrong attitude to assume, because sometimes persistent cough may be the only warning of an infection of the lungs. Anyhow it is a symptom that should never be neglected.

A child who coughs and sneezes should be kept away from other children and given prompt medical attention. In certain cases there are signs that the youngster is suffering from some infectious disease, such as whooping cough. Unless immediate precautions are taken the disease will soon spread to other members of the household. In the event the child is not suffering from a contagious disease, it is important that he receive medical care just the same.

Chronic Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis is the most common cause of persistent cough in adults. It also afflicts young children. As its name implies, it is a chronic irritation of the "bronchi," or large pipes of the lungs. Usually it can be traced to some infection of the nose, nasal sinuses, pharynx or larynx. The infection leads to congestion and irritation of the upper air passages and unless overcome causes a chronic cough and irritation of the lungs.

Children who suffer from chronic bronchitis are often victims of asthma and hay fever. They have a lowered resistance against colds and other infections. These children are extremely susceptible to the common disorders of childhood and may yield to pneumonia and other serious infections of the lungs.

Croup, or catarrhal inflammation of the larynx or windpipe, is sometimes confused with persistent cough more simple in its nature. This condition often follows exposure to cold and dampness and usually afflicts children between the ages of two and five. Children with enlarged adenoids and tonsils are especially susceptible to this disturbance.

An acute attack of croup is alarming to most mothers who are unfamiliar with this affliction. The child first complains of hoarseness. Some time during the night he may be awakened by a barking and persistent cough which gradually increases in severity. The cough may become so severe as to interfere with breathing.

Treatment for Croup

It is always best to call a physician. In the meantime relief can be given by placing the child in a hot bath, taking care not to scald him. After fifteen to twenty minutes in the tub, the little sufferer should be taken out and wrapped in warm blankets.

The use of a "croup kettle" placed alongside of the bed, gives further relief. It diminishes the spasms and makes breathing easier and more comfortable.

There are various other afflictions of childhood characterized by persistent cough. Some are serious and extremely dangerous when neglected.

Bear in mind that chronic cough in a child is a sign of some important disturbance. Careful medical attention is required to determine the underlying cause if a cure is to be effected.

"BEACH BEAUTY" by ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER XXXIII

Spike and Kelly ran down the beach and jumped into the big car. They roared away. Spike gave a feeble wave.

Kay tried to sit still and wait, but it was no use. She rose and paced the deck, five minutes, ten minutes, fifteen minutes half an hour. Finally she heard a car draw up at the dock and ran down to meet it.

Spike came out first, flushed and weaty, then Kelly. Kay was holding her breath. To her relief Earl Harrow stepped out, smiling and sane for once.

"Thanks, Kay," he said simply, pressing her two hands. "If these ramps had the brains you have—and if I had them—I might get long better."

Spike and Kelly stood aside sheepishly.

"What happened?" Kay asked.

Your hunch was right. If the bridge hadn't been up to let a night boat through just when I saw Spike and Kelly never would I have caught up with them. It was a little thing, right. When the boys were up, the chauffeur tried to get on it and I caught on at once, ordered him to stop and he stopped. Before I could grab him he was out of the car and heading through the brush. We chased him until we lost him and that was that.

They went aboard the boat. Harrow ordered scotch for himself and Spike, coffee for Kay. Sitting across from her he seemed to be studying some abstract problem. A faint smile on his lips. There was a faint smile on his lips.

"We found Ida's garage had been broken into. The car had been 'borrowed'." he said. "I don't know where Ida is. Out of town a day or two probably."

"Then you don't think—"

"That she had anything to do with it." He looked deep into his glass as if it were a crystal globe. "I don't think anything," he said. "I used to think things. Now I wait and find them out."

"Kay," he said. "You probably saved my neck tonight, with your hunch."

Spike approached them.

"This intellectual giant didn't have a brain cell working," Harrow said.

"I'll admit it, Earl. You can call me anything you like, kick me anywhere you want."

"Spike didn't have a chance," Kay protested. "No one could have suspected anything."

"But you did," Harrow replied.

"I don't know," mine wasn't brains; just a hunch."

"Earl," Spike said, clearing his throat, "you ought to feel mighty grateful to little sister here."

"I quite naturally do."

"You've been talking for a long time about wanting to do something for her. Well, I'm not asking anything about angles and I'm not begging anybody's pardon, but I were in your place I'd give the girl a real break. And if this be real—well—" and Spike grinned defiantly and shrugged his prizefighter's shoulders.

Harrow turned to Kay. "All of which is true," he admitted. "But there's more than meets the eye. Spike has had your interests at heart a long time."

"Aw—"

"Never mind, Spike. It's all right you know. We know your altruistic spirit. But Spike has a bee in his bonnet. I can tell. He knows we're leaving here at once and he wants to let it out so we can hear it buzz."

"Well I have got a little scheme I want to discuss with you, Earl."

"You've got to see," Harrow said with a graceful gesture of his hand to Kay.

What the bee was Kay didn't learn that night. The two men drove her home, Kelly riding in the rear seat, and at her door Harrow said, "Spike's right, you know, Kay. I'll want to talk to you tomorrow."

Sleep was hard to win that night after so much excitement, but finally it was morning and Kay awoke not especially refreshed but eager for what this new day might have to offer in the way of surprises. First she decided to call the hospital to inquire about Pete.

"He's no longer here," the girl at the desk said.

"No longer there? He must be."

"No, I'm sorry. He left yesterday afternoon." The girl lowered her voice. "He shouldn't have. It was against orders."

Kay let the receiver fall dully onto the hook. What, then, did this mean? Pete out of the hospital against orders, the night another attempt had been made to attack or abduct Harrow.

Before Kay could run over to Pete's to see if he had gone to his home from the hospital Earl Harrow called with Spike. Both the men seemed secretly amused. Spike stepped out of the car to make room for Kay and grinned as he greeted her.

"Something's up," she said.

"You bet," Spike admitted.

"Wait until we get over to the boat," Harrow suggested.

They drove over to the yacht and sat on the deck to sip cold drinks.

Harrow turned to Spike "Maybe you'd better explain it," he suggested, "in your own inimitable way."

Spike settled back with an air of importance.

"Suits me," he said. "All right, eters follow Earl Harrow to Florida and try to kidnap him, what's that? I'll tell you; news, big news! But Earl didn't see it that way. The less said about it the less other hoods might think about the same idea and the less emphasis there'd be on the snatch racket anyway. You see how he had it figured? Well, you never know, and I kept harping on it to him, what swell publicity it would make.

"And then I got another idea. You remember the day we went out fishing and you hauled the Campbell out of the ocean?"

Kay nodded, smiling at Spike's earnestness.

"It hit me then like a ton of brick. When I saw you drag her out and everything, and you looking like a million in your seanties, what did I think? I'll tell you. Wow, what a photo! Sea-going Florida beauty rescues wealthy divorcee from sharks while on fishing trip with Earl Harrow, the famous producer. Get it? But Earl says no—it'd be cheap publicity. He is funny like that. I tell you. You don't know the trouble I have with him." Spike said, glaring with mock indignation at his suave employer.

Anyway, I kept all that in my mind. And, when Earl finally got the idea last night that he wanted to do something big for you, I sprung it on him all at once. Here was his chance. He'd been talking all along about wishing he could help you without being too obvious—another of his notions. So, I said, why not make a ten-strike? Cash in on the racketeers, help Kay and help yourself all at once."

Kay looked in embarrassed bewilderment from Spike to Harrow. Spike plunged on though.

"I said, Kay's a bug on boats and can swim like a seal. All right, make it look like the racketeers have messed up your boat, have Kay pull a rescue stunt in her launch, and have you discover she is just the girl you're looking for to play the lead in a salt water

Did you ever notice .. in a roomful of people .. the difference between one cigarette and another .. and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette . . . the kind of tobaccos they are made of . . . the way the tobaccos are blended . . . the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things.

Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right.

But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos . . . tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.

actively identified with the Shrine for many years and was chief rabbi at his death. He was also a member of Al Sirat Grotto, having headed the Mardi Gras committee when the national convention was held here in 1927.

Mr. Elden's connection with the American Legion brought him more prominence, perhaps, than any of his other varied activities. He was state department commander in 1930-31 and at the Detroit convention in 1932 was nominated from the floor for national commander. He withdrew after two ballots were taken. He had been commander of Cleveland Post No. 2.

As an attorney Mr. Elden received considerable publicity as counsel for Gene Carroll and Glenn Rowell, the radio team of Gene and Glenn, in their divorce proceedings, which were heard together.

In 1928-29 Mr. Elden was president of the Ohio Bar Association. He was a member of the general council of the American Bar Association from 1927 to 1930 and a member of the executive committee of the Cleveland Bar Association from 1926 to 1929.

Mr. Elden was also a member of the American Law Institute, the National Solicitors, the Sons of the American Revolution, Delta Theta Phi, Alpha Phi, Phi Kappa Alpha, fraternity, and held its national convention here last week and at meetings of which Mr. Elden spoke; the Knights of Pythias, the Elks, the University Club, the Mid-Day Club, the Cleveland and Columbus Athletic Clubs and the Manakiki Country Club.

Besides Mrs. Elden, whom he married in 1930, Mr. Elden is survived by a daughter by his first wife, Betty Jane, 15, and a son, John A. Elden, Jr., 2.

Donahy Will Be A Quiet Senator, He Tells Friends

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Senator-elect Vic Donahy of Ohio, on hand here to take up where Senator Simeon D. Fess leaves off, plans to be an "awfully quiet senator."

Donahy celebrated the new year by gathering many of the members of his large family about him. Relatives and business associates will be on hand to see him take his oath of office when congress convenes Thursday.

Donahy he planned to rest until Thursday and that he would meet legislative problems when they arise. This is the first trip to Washington since he came here in 1925 to act as pallbearer at the funeral of William Jennings Bryan.

"I have no preconceived notions about anything," Donahy said, "and I'm going to be an awfully quiet senator."

There will be very little fuss made about the oath taking and Donahy said there will be "no parties."

Among those who will be present for the opening session are his son-in-law, J. W. Huffman of Columbus, Mrs. Huffman and their daughter, Peggy; Dr. and Mrs. Iolas Huffman of Ravenna, and J. H. Donahy of Cleveland, brother of the senator-elect.

Among Donahy's business associates who are expected to attend the session are Carl Crisadin of Columbus, A. E. Mittendorf and James Gardner of Cincinnati, Mark Bailey of Columbus, Dennis Aeschliman of Wauson, Ralph Engler of Mansfield, Walter Gray of Leesburg and C. H. Wallack of Van Wert.

Good could be accomplished by printing every year a story that Ring Lardner wrote long ago in Chicago before his name was well known. He told of two young men who decided to sit in a quiet corner and philosophize, spending a half hour watching others "make idiots of themselves."

The rising sun, next morning, saw the two philosophers rolling over in the gutter, fighting as to which one should pay the check.

LONG ago a man wagered that he would stand on London bridge offering genuine gold sovereigns for a shilling each and find few takers. The gold sovereigns were genuine, but nobody would buy Mel Smith's a circus official called "Lucky" Smith, but that Los Angeles citizens would refuse to buy genuine $5 bills for $3.39 each. Hundreds walked by, looked at the genuine bills. Some cried "Fake!" Only two purchased. "Lucky" Smith won a $100 wager.

among some middle and far-westerners in the past have hit what they termed attempts at "gag rule."

Not Directed at Bonus

Supporters of the 218-rule, who said it would pass, declared it was not directed at the bonus. Rep. Byrne and other chiefs, conceding that the bonus will pass the house the first time, intend to bring it up as promptly as possible.

The 218-rule, it was indicated, was aimed primarily at inflationary moves lacking administration approval.

The question of sectionalism was in the forefront of the house leadership fight. Representative Bankhead of Alabama, in the opinion of many observers, had the edge, but Rep. Lea of California and some others argued that since the speaker's leadership was going to Tennessee the leadership should go north or west.

Candidates from north and west included Representatives O'Connor and Mead of New York, McCormack of Massachusetts, Greenwood of Indiana, Sabbath of Illinois and Lea.

For the next week senate Democratic leaders have agreed to take up the protocol which would put the United States in the world court.

Ickes Is Asked To Discharge 2 Aids

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Secretary Ickes has received from the White House, The Washington Post says, a hint that he should get rid of two of his principle aides.

A situation so delicate has been created, the paper adds, that it might conceivably lead to resignation of the public works administrator.

The newspaper says sources close to the President have indicated to Ickes that he should disengage with the service of Ebert K. Burlew, chief administrative assistant, and Louis R. Glavis, director of investigation of the interior department.

Wire-tapping of telephone lines to presidential appointees within the interior department and the public works administration was said by the newspaper to have been reported to the White House. It was said that conversations between interior department officials, cabinet members and other agency officials have been recorded by the organization headed by Glavis.

Burlew, it was said, is held responsible for instructions given to Glavis.

Burlew has served in the interior department during four administrations; he was administrative assistant under Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur and was retained in that position by Ickes. He is regarded as the most influential man in the department next to Ickes himself.

Alabama Smashes Stanford 29-13 In Rose Bowl Contest

Dixie Howell Shines as Great Passing, Punting and Running Star; Bobby Grayson Crashes Through for Indian Eleven

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN, Associated Press Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2.—Alabama's Crimson Tide rolled home today leaving in its wake the greatest chapter of 20 years of Rose Bowl football history.

For yesterday before a record crowd of 85,000 astonished spectators, the Tide inundated a powerful Stanford eleven 29 to 13.

On the crest of the Tide as it surged through the classic Rose Bowl rode Millard (Dixie) Howell, as great a passing, punting, running back as ever laid hand on a pigskin in this annual New Year's intercollegiate series.

First he booted long, spiraling punts. He threw passes and then he reached the heights with a sensational 67-yard run.

It was a victory of passes over power as Alabama added another page to its record of defeatless Rose Bowl play.

There wasn't a dull moment from the time Bobby Grayson crashed over in the first period after Stanford had turned on its power attack to the closing quarter when Howell fired the last of his amazingly accurate passes into the arms of Don Hutson for 46 yards and the red regiment's final touchdown.

The two teams had battled along on a fairly even basis until late in the first stanza, when Joe Demyanovich, Bama fullback, fumbled the ball on his 27-yard line and Keith Topping recovered for the Tribesmen. In two driving plays, Grayson took the ball to the 12-yard line. Robert (Bones) Hamilton, on a reverse, raced around to the 5. Behind massed interference Grayson pushed to the one foot line and dove over on the next play.

The Tide started surging shortly after the second period opened. Howell returned Frank Alustiza's punt 24 yards and started sharpshooting. He threw a short pass to Hutson, another to Jim Angethe and a third to Paul Bryant, who was spilled on the 5 yard mark. Then he hit left guard, scoring standing up.

A few moments later Smith put the invaders in the lead with a field goal from the Stanford 20-yard line.

Three plays after the Stanford kickoff Dixie found a hole over left tackle. He swept through, cut back, and outran the Indian secondary going 67 yards to score.

He was taken from the game immediately but there was no rest for the pass-dizzy Indians. Joe Riley stepped right in Howell's shoes and threw a long one to Hutson for still a third touchdown, a 54-yard play just before the half ended.

On sheer power from their 25-yard line the Tribesmen battered

TULANE WINS IN SUGAR BOWL

Triumphs Over Temple 20 to 14 on New Year's Day

(By Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—The Southland's Sugar Bowl game, it's inaugural made sweeter by Tulane's 20 to 14 triumph over Temple yesterday, is an assured fixture in sports.

Thirty thousand spectators, one of the largest crowds which ever witnessed a grid game in the south, packed the stadium.

Both teams had thrill-producing stars. For Temple, he was the giant "Dynamite Dave" Smucker, who time after time tore through the Tulane line.

Tulane's ace, "Little Monk" Simons, played honors with a remarkable 14, Dick Hardy.

Racing Notes

By C. ROBERT KAY, Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—All two-year-old thoroughbreds at mid-night tonight become three-year-old and potential candidates for the 1935 Kentucky Derby—the first big racing stake of the year which brings together the classes of the three-year-old division.

The official birthday of all race horses, Jan. 1, finds two colts in the forefront of speculation as to the Derby result. They are Joseph E. Widener's Chance Sun, winner of the Belmont futurity and leading money-winning juvenile, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Balladier.

Colonel Bradley is a perennial seeker after derby honors. His horses have won four of them, a record, and winter odds on Balladier indicate the bookies think he has an excellent chance to win a fifth.

Three fillies are conceded fair chances to duplicate the feat of Regret, only horse of her sex to win the Derby. They are Calumet farm's Nellie Flag, Normand M. Church's Toro Nancy, and C. V. Whitney's Motto. Toro Nancy may first try for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, as she has been nominated for the rich stake on the Pacific coast in February.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Simon will try for her second Derby in a row with a fine colt, Psychic Bid.

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 2.—A new track record of 1:43 2-5 for the mile and one-sixteenth at Santa Anita track was held today by Aztec, seven-year old gelding.

The fast time was made in winning the New Year's $5,000 stake. Aztec, bred in Ireland and a steepie chase jumper, established himself as a possible contender for the $100,000 Santa Anita derby next month.

The big horse, with jockey George Woolf up, came from last place to win by a length and a half from Mad Pump and High Glee, which finished second and third.

Pert Sports

Captain "Biff" Jones, who withdrew as Louisiana State's coach after his celebrated run-in with Huey Long, has told friends he is all washed up with the football business. He stepped out of a $7,500 job at L. S. U. and has refused several flattering offers to go elsewhere, preferring the old army game instead.

NORFOLK, Va.—Peanut production in the United States for 1934 was 1,063,035,000 pounds—the highest on record except for 1931—it was reported here. The 1931 crop totaled 1,553,840,000 pounds.

Dixie Howell Seeking New World To Conquer

What becomes of college football stars after graduation? In the past there were always plenty of enthusiastic old grads willing to provide them with soft jobs as insurance salesmen or something, but nowadays the wealthy alumni haven't got so many jobs to hand out; so the gridiron heroes find themselves a lot tougher when they have finished dying for dear old Whoozie.

Of course, many pigskin warriors try to make the grade in pro football, but college reputations mean nothing among the hard boiled pros, and each year only a few newcomers are able to stick with the big league professional teams. Another stock ambition of the graduating football star is to become a coach, but there are only a limited number of good coaching jobs, and most colleges want experienced mentors of established reputation.

Not a few famous gridmen try their hands at other branches of pro sport after leaving college. Millard "Dixie" Howell, great Alabama halfback, who did his stuff before California fans in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day, is a versatile all-around athlete, and is especially talented on the baseball field. Dixie hopes to make the grade as a big league ball player and will try out in the majors after graduating next June.

Two prominent pro grid stars, Ken Strong, of the Giants, and Beattie Feather, of the Bears, will also try out with big league baseball teams in the spring.

Frank Frisch, who was an all-American back at Fordham, and Mickey Cochrane, who played football with Boston University, are two former gridmen who reached the topmost heights of the baseball ladder.

Several football luminaries will take a fling at the boxing game shortly. George Theodore, burly Washington State tackle, who holds the Pacific Coast intercollegiate heavyweight title as well as being one of the world's best shotputters, will enter the pro fight game after competing in the 1936 Olympics.

Bob Pastor, N. Y. U. griddler and amateur champ, also intends to toss leather in the roped arena for a living.

WOOSTER COACH RESUMES DRILLS
Hole Prepares for Ohio Conference Season Opener

(By Associated Press)
WOOSTER, Jan. 2.—Coach E. M. Hole will recall his Wooster basketball squad to the campus tomorrow to resume drills for the Ohio Conference season which opens for the Scots Jan. 10 with Denison at Granville.

Coach Hole is devoting most of his attention to the sophomores, following the failure of veterans from the 1933-34 team to display expected form.

Inability to shoot cost the Scots pre-season games with Penn and the Ohio college of Chiropractic, and Hole is seeking new cagers to work into his race-horse style of play which puts a premium on the fast break toward the basket and a shot before the defense can get set.

Max Baer Features Boxing In 1934

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Max Baer's sensational advance to the heavyweight throne, bringing the title back to the United States, featured professional boxing during 1934. The clothing Californian, throwing unorthodox, roundhouse punches, all but murdered Primo Carnera, the defending titleholder, in their spectacular bout at Madison Square Garden Bowl on June 14. He had the giant on the floor so many times—variously estimated at from nine to thirteen—that poor Primo never did get a chance to strut his stuff.

The referee finally stopped the slaughter and awarded the title to Baer on a technical knockout in the eleventh round.

Three other titles—the welterweight, middleweight and lightweight heavyweights—also changed hands during the year. The light-heavyweight championship, Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, the lightning playboy who had long been flirting with loss of his bawble, lost it to Bob Olin, another New Yorker, in a dull bout at Madison Square Garden on Nov. 16. Olin's victory was by no means clear-cut.

A series of elimination bouts between Steve Hamas, Max Schmeling, Carnera, Art Lasky and King Levinsky, for a crack at Baer's title, will provide the chief interest in the heavyweight division during the winter.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2.—There were no excuses today from University of Miami gridmen for the 26 to 0 trouncing they suffered as the thundering herd of Bucknell university marched roughshod through the Orange Bowl football game here.

One player bruised and worn by the fight to stave off the undeniable thrusts of the Lewisburg, Pa., eleven, expressed the team's sentiments when he said: "They outweighted and outclassed us—they simply were the better team."

WEST RETAINS SUPREMACY IN 7TH ENCOUNTER

East and West All-Star Squads Thrill Some 55,000 Fans

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—A western victory has been recorded for the seventh time in the 10-year history of the East-West football classic.

Playing for the benefit of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children here, the two all-star squads gave some 55,000 fans a thrilling afternoon yesterday before the final gun boomed a 19 to 13 victory.

Taking the lead early, the westerners amassed all their touchdowns in the first half.

Jim Barber, San Francisco university tackle, provided the winners' first touchdown when he scooped up Miller Munjas' blocked kick on the third play and ran 23 yards to the end zone.

Warburton Scores Next
A few minutes later, Irvine "Cotton" Warburton, University of Southern California's famed little quarterback, took Munjas' punt on the west 28-yard stripe and dashed down the sidelines to the second score.

Pouring on the power, the winners pushed down the field in the second period for another score, after the West had moved to the 15-yard mark. Frank Sobrero of Santa Clara faked over the right sideline and lunged a 14-yard pass across field, intended for Felix Pennino, St. Mary's College end.

Pennino barely touched it, and the ball bounced into the air. Just then, Cal Clemens, U. S. C. ace halfback moved into the picture, grabbed the loose pigskin and stepped over the goal.

The easterners unleashed an assortment of plays which scored two touchdowns in 20 minutes in the second half.

Bill Shepherd, Western Maryland's high scoring halfback, smashed through left tackle and wound up across the goal, 39 yards away.

The East's passing attack finally clicked in the fourth period when Joe Bokanski, Colgate end, took Munjas' 12-yard pass right out of chelini, St. Mary's back, and fell in the arms of Warburton and Al Nittche.

Iszy Weinstock of Pittsburgh, place-kicked the extra point.

BAER TO FIGHT 2ND EXHIBITION

Meets Babe Hunt at Detroit Friday; Others On Card

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Heavy weights, including Champion Max Baer, at Detroit and lightweights at New York furnish the major fight attractions this week.

Although Baer, fresh from his sensational two-round knockout of King Levinsky, will box a four-round exhibition with Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., the champion will play second-fiddle at Detroit Friday night to a home-town foe, Joe Louis, 20-year-old Negro heavyweight.

Louis will be seeking his 13th consecutive professional victory when he meets Patsy Perroni of Canton and Cleveland in the main bout of ten rounds.

At New York, Madison Square Garden's Friday night show will feature a 15-round lightweight duel between Lew Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., and Lew Massey, Philadelphia veteran.

Ambers, a youngster who has come along fast in the last few months, has been designated by the New York State Athletic commission as No. 1 challenger for Barney Ross' 135-pound title.

United States Tennis Head Optimistic Over 1935 Season Outlook

Walter Merrill Hall Wishes Professional Players Would Fly Correct Flag and Not That of the Amateur

BY WALTER MERRILL HALL, (President, United States Lawn Tennis Association).

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—As I see it, we have no reason to be other than completely optimistic over the tennis outlook for 1935.

During recent years sales of tennis goods and equipment have expanded rather than declined, as in many other sports, testifying to the wide public appeal of tennis with its maximum of healthy stimulating exercise, comparatively moderate expense and shorter time required of busy people.

Relations of the U. S. Lawn Tennis association with the governing bodies of other countries have improved and strengthened through our policy of closer cooperation with them on important questions affecting the game.

Considerable progress has been made in 1934 and will be consolidated and advanced this year, in stiffening amateur standards and eliminating abuses of the amateur spirit which have crept into the game in the last decade.

We have no quarrel with those players who are able and decide to make tennis their living and profession, but we do insist that they fly the professional flag and not the amateur standard. The commercialization of all sports resulting from increased public interest and willingness to pay to see them play may be regretted by those who think of what they call the "good old days," but it must be recognized that times have changed.

Regarding the Davis cup outlook, I am far from pessimistic. Several leading countries have teams and material which are closely matched, thus insuring splendid, healthy competition in 1935. England is in a strong position as the holding nation, but is by no means unbeatable.

HUNT IS NEW TENNIS CHAMP

Washington, D. C., Boy Takes National Indoor Singles Title

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Justifying his seeding as No. 1 player in the tournament, Gilbert Hunt, of Washington, D. C., and a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is the new national junior indoor singles tennis champion.

In taking over the crown left undefeated by Frankie Parker, national ranking star, Hunt turned back Alfred L. Jarvis, Jr., of Jackson school, Tarrytown, N. Y., 5-7, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 in the final match yesterday.

He then paired with Charles Mattman, Jr., of Trinity school to take the doubles title with a 6-3, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9 triumph over the Northwestern university team of Russell Ball and Donald Leavens.

The national boys' title was won by Henry H. Daniels, Jr., of the Choate school, who whipped Arthur C. Nielsen, Jr., of Winnetka, Ill., in the final match, 10-12, 6-0, 6-0.

The boys' double championship went to Isador Bellis of Philadelphia and Marvin Kantrowitz of New York, who defeated the Choate school favorites, Daniels and Robert A. Low, Jr., 6-2, 6-4.

TWO DIE AFTER SAAR RIOTING

At Least 100 Others Hurt in New Year's Day Strife

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 2.—Two persons were killed and at least 100 injured in New Year's day political strife in the Saar, it was learned today.

Guns, pitchforks, hammers and iron rods were used in clashes throughout the territory between Nazis and their adversaries. Half a dozen of the injured received bullet wounds.

Women were brought into the violent part of the struggle preliminary to the Jan. 13 plebiscite last night, when nine shots were poured into the house of a leader of a Nazi women's organization in Budweiler. No one was injured.

KIDNAP TRIAL IS UNDER WAY

less than four yards away and against the same courtroom rail.

At one point in the morning's proceedings the defense was accused of trying to attract "unwarranted sympathy." This was when C. Lloyd Fisher of the defense staff asked a prospective juror if the presence of so many state troopers in uniform would influence him. Justice Trenchard also thought the question "unjustified."

Hauptmann was heavily guarded when he was brought into the courtroom, but no manacles bound his hands. He was dressed in a neat gray suit. So was Colonel Lindbergh, who strode in a few minutes later and passed directly in front of the prisoner.

BY WILLIAM A. KINNEY.
(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann came to trial for his life today, subdued but all adamant against the charge that he murdered the Lindbergh baby.

The start of the trial, carrying to a climax the crime of the century—the infant's kidnapping and slaying—brought Hauptmann face to face openly for the first time with the father of the victim, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Only Witness On Hand

The famous flier was the only one of the state's principal witnesses to come for the first formalities, selection of a jury of Hauptmann's peers to decide whether he should be acquitted or convicted—and die in the electric chair.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, sitting with Judge Adam O. Robbins of the court of common pleas, called the first session for 10 a. m., eastern standard time, in the ancient Hunterdon county courthouse.

This peaceful colonial hamlet, swollen suddenly from its normal proportions of 2,700 persons to a boom town of 3,500, heralded the trial busily, but without excitement.

The hundreds of strangers, come to record and take part in the judgment, and the approximate $50,000 a week they will spend, were received as a matter of course.

Quiz Betty Gow

The state's legal forces closed their months of preparation with a painstaking review of all phases of the case and a final questioning of Betty Gow, who was nurse to the Lindbergh baby.

After the hour's questioning at the Neagy Wilburtha state police barracks late yesterday, Assistant Attorney General Robert Peacock said:

"I am impressed that she will be an important witness."

The defense counsel, headed by florid-faced Edward J. Reilly, veteran star actor in courtroom drama, had conferred at length in New York.

Col. Lindbergh was expected to sit at the prosecution table just as he did two years ago in the century-old courthouse when John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., boat-builder, was convicted of obstructing justice in the hunt for the kidnapers.

The flying colonel is to be among the first of the state witnesses.

The story of the crime will be unfolded chronologically. After preliminary witnesses describe the geography of the scene of the crime on Sourland mountain and the layout of the white Lindbergh residence, Lindbergh, his wife, the former Anne Morrow; Betty Gow, and Mrs. Ollie Wheatley, widow of the Lindbergh butler, will tell what happened the night of the kidnapping.

A Different Man

The Hauptmann, manacled and guarded closely, who hears that story day by day is a different man from the artisan who was arrested in September. He is leaner, the sharpness of his features is more pronounced and the prison pallor shows on his face. But he is as inscrutable as ever, and he wears the familiar grey flannel double-breasted suit in which he has appeared in pre-trial proceedings.

Of a piece and fabric with the narrative of the Lindbergh kidnapping and killing is the chain of evidence coordinated carefully for the trial, both by the prosecution and defense.

The state charges Hauptmann, the prosaic, phlegmatic carpenter, single-handedly perpetrated the most shocking crime of modern criminal history. On an intricate web of circumstantial evidence the state relies for conviction.

Hooligan's Back

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 2.—Happy Hooligan, an Irish terrier, dear to the heart of Governor White, and his daughter, Miss Mary Louise White, was back at the executive mansion today, little the worse from a three-day ramble of the streets and alleys.

Found in the foyer of a theater, and turned over to police, he was escorted back to the executive mansion, and given a bath, after officers reported that—perhaps from nothing more serious than sheer nervousness—he was continually scratching himself.

Takes Icy Bath

DAYTON, O., Jan. 2.—Jack Gress, 6 years old, was alive today, and apparently little the worse for an icy plunge in the Big Miami river, experienced when he skipped down the sides of the river levee. Unable to swim, he managed to hold onto the thin ice until Eldwood Rees, a city fireman, pulled him to safety.

JAFSIE AWAITS COURT ORDEAL

Dr. John Condon Ready to Testify for Prosecution

By DONALD C. BOLLES.
(Copyrighted, 1935, By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Dr. John F. Condon, vouching for his readiness to testify for the state of New Jersey in its effort to convict Bruno Richard Hauptmann of the Lindbergh kidnap-killing, said today he regards it as a "dreadful ordeal," but worth while if it results in expiating the crime.

The 74-year-old retired school teacher, "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations, withheld his opinion as to whether Hauptmann is guilty, but expressed hope that he is nearing an end to the task he set himself two years and ten months ago.

Works Untiringly

It was then that he entered the abduction case as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's intermediary, and since that time he has sought relentlessly to bring to justice the perpetrator of what he describes as "the most dastardly crime in modern history."

Sitting in his Bronx home, Dr. Condon said he approached the "ordeal" on the witness stand confident that his motives cannot be impugned.

"I realize that in the course of the trial efforts may be made to discredit me but my actions have been beyond reproach and I will take the stand confident that nothing they can do will hurt me," he said.

The former educator is aware of suspicion aroused in some quarters concerning his motives and actions, and to most of it he paid little heed, awaiting his day in court.

Through it all—and he reiterated that if he had to, he would do it all over again—Dr. Condon said he had been fortified by the faith in him displayed by the two colonels—Charles Lindbergh and Henry Breckinridge, the aviator's counsel.

"They were like a beacon in a storm," Dr. Condon said.

Silent On Testimony

He was silent concerning the testimony he may contribute to the state's case and made clear that not until he takes the witness stand will he say publicly whether he believes the former German machine gunner is the man to whom he gave $50,000 ransom, only to find later that he had been deceived.

Authoritative sources close to the prosecution have said that Col. Lindbergh's agent, after previously refusing to say "yes" or "no," had provided the state with a strong link in the chain of evidence by identifying the accused.

Dr. Condon said he would be in court for the second day of the trial Thursday, but gave no indication when he expected to be called.

State Fund Higher

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2.—The general revenue fund of the state of Ohio showed a balance of $4,921,059.33 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, as compared with a balance of $737,288.10 a year ago, State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy reported today.

Of the balance, which is subject to draft, the auditor said it reflected "a surprisingly favorable condition of the exchequer of the state of Ohio."

CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely wish to thank the Goshen grange, the Golden Key club, the Ellsworth Avenue club, Central Clinic, First Friends Sunday school and church and all the friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of our dear mother and sister. Also Rev. Charles Bailey and Rev. Isaac Kinsey for their consoling words.

William Haines Returns To Screen; Penner Heads Cast In Tonight's Film

NOT so long ago, one of Hollywood's most popular stars but suddenly dropped into oblivion William Haines returns to the screen in "The Marines Are Coming," the State's feature for Thursday. Also prominently cast in this picture is Conrad Nagel, once a great star, and lovely Esther Ralston, silent screen star who recently has been staging a comeback. The fourth prominent member of the cast is tiny Arnold, Mexican dancer and singer. Others are Edgar Kennedy, Hale Hamilton, George Regas and Dell Henderson.

As the carefree bad boy of the Marine corps who plunges into disgrace through love of the lovely fiancée of his Captain and then wins an uphill fight for vindication, in the thick of a Latin-American conflict Haines has an ideal role for his particular type of breezy, fast talking type of acting.

Haines In Good Role

Bill Traylor laughs his lusty way through the army with little care for anyone other than himself until he meets Dorothy, Bill rattles off wisecracks like a machine gun firing full-speed and makes love with virginal gusto but he runs amok for Dorothy who is already engaged to Captain Benton. Benton is staid, reliable and proper and considered a prude by Bill but the former is sincerely in love with Dorothy. Armida, whose dancing and singing guarantee success for any picture, comes upon the scene when Bill is celebrating in a gambling house on the eve of his marriage. Dorothy sails for Latin-America without Bill in disgrace he resigns from the corps—it looks like taps—but no when his marine buddies get into a desperate fix requiring a desperate remedy, he is right on hand to storm his way back from disgrace in a quick paced climax that brings the picture to an end.

There are some really good songs by Revel and Gordon including "Stay As Sweet As You Are" and "Take a Number From One to Ten" and the dance routines are by LeRoy Prinz. The comedy is guaranteed what with Penner and Oakie in the cast. This is Penner's first feature film and it certainly will not be his last judging from the laughs he promotes in "College Rhythm."
